

CITY OF PALM SPRINGS SUSTAINABILITY CELEBRATION

A Healthy Planet, Healthy You Event

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 2012

9:00 am to 2:00 pm

2300 E Baristo Rd. Palm Springs, CA

Join Mayor Steve Pougnet and the City of Palm Springs for their Fifth Annual Sustainability Celebration

taking place Saturday, October 27, 2012 from 8am to 2pm near the Camelot Theater on Baristo and Farrell Dr. in Palm Springs. This free event is great for all ages and the whole family.

Mayor's Welcome • Farmers Market
Surprise Celebrity Guests • Food Trucks
Childrens Fitness Activities • Vendors
Electric Vehicle Display And Much, Much More!

The Fall Sustainability Celebration will coincide with the Palm Springs Organic Farmers' Market and will feature a refrigerated "grocery valet" so Farmers' Market shoppers can check their groceries and stay to enjoy exhibitors on all things organic, nutritional demonstrations, and speakers including Mayor Pougnet as well as Michele Globis, Brand Ambassador for world famous chef and TV Personality Jamie Oliver.

In addition to the speakers, there will be group exercise activities, and organic food trucks.

The Healthy Planet, Healthy You program is a City of Palm Springs program created to raise awareness on wellness and reduce childhood obesity. Childhood obesity is at epidemic proportions across the country.

Starting October 1, 2012 participants and sign up for the 2013 Mayors Race taking place April 2013.

Participants can walk, run, hike, bike or swim their way to fitness.

